THE ALLEN H. WHICH CRUISED THE GULF, DROVE UP IN

The houseboat Allen H. which has come and gone from the yacht club house, and is remembered by Daytona, has been destroyed by fire in the St. Augustine harbor. It was a comparatively new boat, well equipped and appointed.

John Worley, who formerly resided in Miami, discovered the fire but the flames had made too much headway to be extinguished, and within a few minutes the vessel was a total loss. She was being prepared for service and would have been put on a steady run between St. Augustine and Miami during the winter, following the installation of a more powerful engine.

The boat was owned by Chas. Edmister, of St. Augustine.

WEARING SMILES.

Besides Quail and Turkey in Plenty They Bring Down Big Game.

Messrs. William Jackson, J. D. Maley and H. T. Titus betook themselves to the sequestered haunts of the upper Tomoka waters last week and wandered in the wilderness with telling results. They rounded in with a bag of 100 quail, a fine turkey and a deer. They enjoyed the tramp, developed strong appetites, slept well and took on a good bronze color.

They are the envy of a circle who have been out and returned with less to show for the hunt.

Haines' Trial Commences.

[By United Press.]

FLUSHING, L. I., Dec. 14.—This morning's session of the court which is trying T. Jenkins Haines for the murder of William E. Annis was devoted to hearing excuses of jurors and calling the roll to see who are absent. The trial will commence this afternoon.

A Stunning Edition.

The Jacksonville Metropolis' Christmas edition was one of the biggest things of the sort ever gotten out in Florida. Fifteen thousand pounds of paper were required for the edition. The big page advertisements, illustrated supplement, etc., show the Metropolis made capable of any achievement they choose to undertake.

YOU DON'T YOUR PRESENTS MAY NOT REACH YOUR FRIENDS TILL NEXT YEAR.

CONGESTION WILL SOON BE ON.

Mr., Mrs., Miss, and everybody in general, who contemplates remembering a friend back at home, hear the admonition of the Daily News: Do your Christmas shopping right away, and let your packages and parcels go forward as soon as possible so as to avoid the congestion which invariably takes place just before Christmas.

This bit of advice applies whether you send an express package or a parcel by mail, both forces will be overworked alike. Last year the Jacksonville post-office did not clean up its packages till a week after Christmas. It is a distributing point for Florida, and at this season handles many thousands of pieces and the force is not able to keep the work cleared up day by day.

Another admonition: Take your packages to be registered to the office in the forenoon or the probability is you will not be waited upon. Train No. 78, north bound, leaves here bearing such packages at 3:07 p. m. Between dinner hour and the departure of this train the mail from the north is received and distributed; there is little time for registry work in the afternoon.

The postoffice force will have to "step lively" as well as "look pleasant" now for some time, so in transacting your business know just what you want to do so as to expedite business and let the fellow next in line have a chance.

To give you an idea of the volume of business now passing through Florida offices it will interest you to know that the Jacksonville office has already thus far this season handled 800,000 "boozie" circulars. It might be too personal, were the Daily News informed, to say how much of such literature the Daytona office is handling.

It would astonish some of you to know the amount of catalogues and circulars sent here from the mail order houses. Chuck this rubbish in the waste basket and stand by the local merchants who advertise and invite you through the local papers. They help to make and run the town. Your mail orders help to build up cities in other states at the expense of the place at which you live.

It is a slight digression from the text but not inopportune in this connection to suggest that you cease to tear open papers and throw wrappers about the office to be blown about the streets. It gives that locality a sloven appearance. And don't, don't expectorate in the office or on the pavement, or on any

VENEZUELAN IN STATE OF TERROR.

Castro's Absence Disorganizes the Republic—Dutch Captures Their War Ships.

PRESIDENT'S ABSENCE SUSPICIOUS.

[By United Press.]

WILLEMSTAD, CURACAO, Dec. 14.—The easy capture of the Venezuelan coast guardship Alix by the Dutch cruiser Seiperland, makes the Venezuelans fear that the same fate awaits all other Venezuelan vessels. The presence of three formidable Dutch warships and the suspicious absence of President Castro has thrown the people of Venezuela in a state of wildest fear, according to messages received here today, and a revolt is now threatened. The seizure of the Alix without a shot being fired is believed here to mark the beginning of the speedy end of Venezuelan resistance to Dutch demands.

CASTRO IN GERMANY.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 14.—President Castro's trip to Germany, the Dutch foreign office believes, is for no other purpose than to ask Germany to intervene in behalf of Venezuela. It is not anticipated here that the Kaiser will give Castro the slightest encouragement. The foreign office issued an emphatic statement today that its action against Venezuela must be considered as against Castro rather than against the Venezuelan people.

Spending Honeymoon in Daytona.

Mrs. Henry C. Godman, widow of the late H. C. Godman, who, with her children, Miss Marie and Lewis, has spent most of her time in Europe since Mr. Godman's death, and whose marriage to Abner C. Shoemaker, in Washington, D. C., on Monday, September 28, was duly chronicled in the Weekly Gazette-News, has arrived in Daytona. Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker are now receiving the congratulations of friends. They are at home for the season on Ridgewood avenue.

Death at Daytona Beach.

A sad death occurred at Daytona Beach about 4 o'clock Monday morning, when the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Butler passed away very suddenly after an illness of only three days. The first trouble was caused by a cold, but it was thought that the child was better, she being able to play about Sunday. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

AGRICULTURAL REPORT COMPREHENSIVE.

Secretary Wilson's Report to Congress Exhaustive—Hoe Greater Than Sword.

PRODUCTS WORTH $7,778,000,000.

[By United Press.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 14.—The annual report of the Secretary of Agriculture was submitted to Congress today giving a detailed statement of the country's products:

The Big 4 of the farm products are corn, cotton, hay and wheat, standing in value thus:

Corn, $1,615,000,000.
Cotton, (not given but close to corn.)
Hay, $621,000,000.
Wheat, $620,000,000.

For the first time in the history of the country the cotton crop has taken second rank in value, the hay crop, which heretofore came second, gives way, while King Cotton noses up into second place.

With but one exception the agricultural exports for 1908 have been the largest in the history of the country.

The farmer, contrary to his reputation, is fast becoming an organizer, and with traction roads spreading, telephones, rural delivery and other advantages he is discarding his germ-incubating whisks, brushing the hay seed from his hair and no longer squanders his hard-earned money for gold bricks. It now goes into savings banks.

Secretary Wilson tells of the interest in better roads, touches upon the forest possessions, the pure food measures, meat inspection, of the work of exterminating tuberculosis in cattle and hogs, reviews work of experiment stations, talks of agricultural education, dairy farming, irrigation in the west, etc.

He speaks with enthusiasm of soil improvement, seed selection, and other advances indicative of the upward trend of the man with the hoe.

Altogether the agricultural outlook is encouraging and shows a steady, healthful growth.

The Daily News acknowledges a fraternal call from W. J. Weston, state agent of the Jacksonville Metropolis.

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 14—Mr. and Mrs. Bullard, friends of Mr. Burnham, arrived last week from Elmira, N. Y., and are comfortably installed at the Burnham cottage on Mitchell avenue. Mrs. Bullard and little son expect to spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Burnham, who are expected to arrive about January 1st. Mr. Bullard returns to his business after the holidays.

A party of East Orange, N. J., winter visitors arrived at the Surf Crest Friday, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Martin and Mrs. Seaborn and two little boys. Mr. and Mrs. F. Gray, of Poston, recent arrivals, have leased Mrs. S. E. Rogers' cottage on Grandview avenue, for the season.

About fifty of Mr. and Mrs. Parsons' friends met at the paragonage Friday night to express their gratification at the termination of his law suit, also their confidence and good will. A purse which had been made up during the day, was presented to the minister by E. A. Branch with a few appropriate words. Mr. Parsons was deeply touched and expressed his great appreciation of the friendship and loyalty of his people. The friends lingered throughout the evening, which was pleasantly and informally spent in social converse. Light refreshments were served before the visitors took their departure.

H. B. Abbott, West Falls Church Va., and Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Taylor, Hastings, Fla., registered at the White House Saturday.

Harry Abolt, who is spending the winter here, is just back from a flying trip to Cuba.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Head and son, of Kansas City, Mo., are at the Seaside Inn, and expect to take a cottage here for the winter.

R. A. Watt and wife, Adrian, Mich.; E. L. Brooks, Joliet, Ill.; A. F. Baldwin, Chicago, are recent arrivals at the Seaside Inn.

Warren Wilcox, Dr. Springer and Mr. Cherry had a boat trip to the Inlet Friday and brought home a fine catch of sheephead.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Porter, of Lansing, Mich., who have spent a number of winters at Daytona Beach, will not come south this winter on account of Mrs. Porter's eyes, which have not recovered the strain of last winter.

Microbes. "Speaking of the ark," he said, "I saw a little boy at play with his Noah's ark the other day. I watched him put aboard all the people, all the painted animals, and then I saw him place carefully in a sheltered spot two tiny splinters of wood. "What are they, my son? I asked. "Them's microbes," said he. "It had never occurred to me before, but there must of course have been a pair of microbes in the ark."—Hampden's Weekly.

"A few friends," which Mr. James Moir in the Brangles World, "chatting with Wyllie, the champion, in a club after one of the days of exhibition play. In the days when a youth, slightly under the influence of John Barleycorn, attempted to monopolize the conversation, leaving his own horse and giving out in no uncertain language that he considered himself the equal of Wyllie. The old man took no notice of him for a time, but, occupying the usual five minutes in considering the move, quietly asked the youth to remove his hat (not more than a six and a half size), then substituted his own—which was a large one and went well down over the young braggart's nose—and, casting his eye around the company, said scornfully, 'That's his measure.' The company enjoyed the retort so much that the youth was glad to make a hurried exit."

The Servant and the Factory Woman. Much as I loathe the factory system, it scores in some respects above sceleries. In factories, at any rate, women meet with their kind and have intercourse with many varieties of human nature. But, chained up in sculleries and kitchens, with tether just long enough to reach the stocking to be mended and no longer, their lives are bare and starved as the picked bones that they put in the pots.—London Woman Worker.

Cost of Big Game Shooting. In the German possessions in Africa a permit to shoot costs $200. Special permission is required to kill more than two giraffes, four rhinoceroses and six zebras. In the case of elephant shooting the authorities must be given one tusk from each animal killed. The hunter receives a small payment if he shoots a lion, panther, wild boar or hyena. A permit to kill gazelles, antelopes and monkeys costs only $10.

A Strong Maid.
A cooking expert tells this story: "Only the other night, dining with some friends of mine, I saw a maid drop and break a superb platter that contained two roast canvasback ducks. Our host did not permit this accident to ruffle him. While we waited for some other course to be substituted for the last one he said: 'You must excuse that maid. These accidents happen all most daily with her. I think it is a disease. She was, I believe, a dairy-maid originally, but she tried to abandon that occupation on account of her inability to handle the cows without breaking their horns.'"

A young man, who had been in the city for some time, was looking for a place to live. He had heard that there was a place called "The Dixie Motel" and he decided to go there. He found it on Beach Street, and it was a very nice place. He had heard that it was a place to spend a pleasant hour, and he was not disappointed. He had heard that it was a place to spend a pleasant hour, and he was not disappointed. He had heard that it was a place to spend a pleasant hour, and he was not disappointed.

One day M. Edmond About called upon Grider, the most celebrated fencing master of his day. "I am in a quandary," said About. "I allowed myself yesterday the pleasure of a job in bad taste, and a duel is to be the result. I know nothing whatever about fencing, and, as you can see, I am fat. Will you give me a lesson, so that I may not make myself too ridiculous?" The lesson was given, but About proved a very poor pupil. On his way out he saw a photograph of Grider. "I suppose," he said, "I must not ask you for one of these?" "With the greatest pleasure," said the fencing master. And, with a chuckle, Grider wrote across the photograph, "To M. Edmond About, the best pupil I have ever had." A few hours afterward the seconds of About's adversary called the writer, saw the photograph on the mantelpiece and, fearing for their friend at the hands of so redoubtable a swordsman, arranged the affair without any duel.

How Henry Irving Wanted to Die. "What have I got out of it?" said Henry, stroking his chin and smiling slightly. "Let me see. Well, a good cigar, a good glass of wine, good friends— Here he kissed my hand with courtesy. Always he was of courteous—always his actions, this little one of kissing my hand, were so beautifully timed. They came just before the spoken words and gave them peculiar value. "That's not a bad summing up of it all," I said. "And the end—how would you like that to come?" "How would I like that to come?" He repeated my question lightly, yet meditatively too. Then he was silent for some thirty seconds before he snapped his fingers—the action again before the words. "Like that!" — Ellen Terry in McClure's Magazine.
